

The most important characteristic that identifies this display cabinet is the high visibility of the products, thanks to the extra depth of the side glasses, which enhances the product packaging.

The wide range of available lengths raises its functionality, as it can be used as a compact display island for promotional and impulse sales or as a refrigerated island. This latter can be the alternative for the smaller retailers where remote islands are not practical.

All models are equipped with top sliding covers in low-emissivity glass. This allows a positive saving of energy costs and the consequent reduction of operating costs and environmental impact

